Reflections and Future Planning with Ellen Heinz

Ellen Heinz, M.Ed., OhioCED
President & CEO

It is amazing how much can change in the blink of an eye. When the newsletter came out last month, my dad was recovering from a fall. Since then, his health took a turn for the worse and he passed away recently. Although he is no longer in pain which is a blessing, the loss will always be there. I'm so thankful for the time I had with him and my family.

This experience has reminded me of several things: Love every moment; Tell those you care about how much they mean to you; Take steps for your wellness today that will benefit you now and in the future; Live your best life.

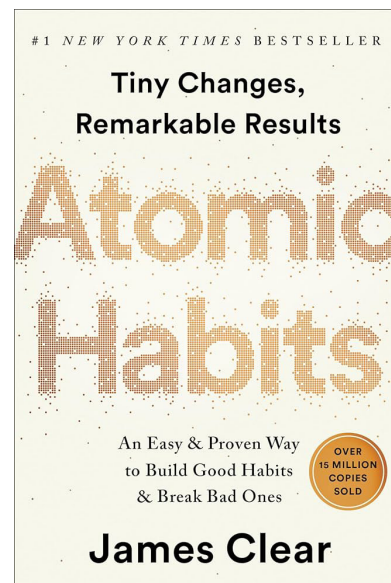

Whether it is for your business or in your everyday life, planning for the future is so important. Succession planning, financial planning, retirement planning, estate planning, wellness planning, career planning might not be part of what you do on a regular basis, but are critical to your health, happiness and legacy.

As an organization, we are focusing on how to make sure we are connecting you with resources to support your success and plans for the future.

As I close these messages, I share with you something that was shared with me. The book "Atomic Habits" by James Clear has been a life changing read for me. It helped me create a "plan" on how to tackle things I needed to address and increase my overall wellness. Goals are essential, but the plan on how to achieve those goals is imperative to successfully achieving them. I hope you read it and enjoy it as much as I did!

Wishing you safety, success and joy,

Ellen Heinz

NAVIGATING INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION HEARINGS: UNDERSTANDING CONTINUANCE REQUESTS

For employers navigating the complexities of workers' compensation claims, the regularity of Industrial Commission (IC) hearings is an inherent aspect of the process. These hearings serve as pivotal forums for addressing contested matters related to workplace injuries and their ensuing repercussions. Scheduled at one of Ohio's 12 IC offices, carefully situated in proximity to the injured worker's residence, these hearings facilitate accessibility and participation for all involved parties. However, despite meticulous planning, unforeseen circumstances may arise, prompting the need for a continuance to ensure fair and equitable proceedings.

Understanding Continuance Requests:

Request Types:

- Good Cause Requests: These are typically submitted at least five days before the hearing date and arise from unavoidable scheduling conflicts.
- Extraordinary Circumstances: Involving unforeseen events like sudden illness or family emergencies, these requests can be made up to the day of the hearing.

Request Process:

- Employers can initiate a continuance request either online via the IC's website or by faxing the relevant office.
- Local Hearing Administrators assess requests based on predefined criteria to determine their validity.

Assistance Available:

- Sedgwick's claims team provides valuable support in navigating the continuance request process, ensuring adherence to IC protocols and facilitating a smooth procedural experience.

For any inquiries or support needed, reach out to Sedgwick's program manager, Paul Feck, at paul.feck@sedgwick.com.

CONTRACTOR SAFETY GUIDELINES

Contractors play a pivotal role in various industries, offering services ranging from renovations to machine installations. However, ensuring their safety alongside that of host employees is paramount. This guide outlines essential practices for maintaining a secure work environment for all involved parties.

Assessing Safety Commitment:

- Evaluate contractors' safety records to gauge their commitment.
- Request injury records, certifications, and training programs to ensure alignment with safety standards.

Comprehensive Hazard Awareness:

- Collaborate with contractors to identify workplace hazards.
- Conduct thorough site inspections and provide comprehensive safety orientation and training to ensure awareness of workplace risks and emergency procedures.

Prioritizing Protection:

- After hazard evaluation, ensure contractors utilize appropriate PPE for their tasks.
- Conduct regular inspections to verify proper usage and promptly address any concerns to mitigate risks.

Promoting Open Dialogue:

- Organize regular safety meetings to discuss concerns, updates, and best practices with contractors.
- Encourage open communication channels to address safety issues and foster a safety culture promptly.

Summary:

Contractor safety is a shared responsibility between contractors and host employers. By assessing safety commitment during pre-qualification, providing comprehensive hazard awareness training, ensuring proper PPE usage, and promoting open communication, organizations can foster a secure work environment for all parties involved.
